PORT JOBS SERVICES

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a huge impact on the economy and on the lives of people working at Sea-Tac Airport. Port Jobs continues to provide critical employment, education and resources for job seekers, airport employees and laid off employees, including:

- Updated job openings at Sea-Tac Airport
- Career navigation and resume development
- Hygiene packs with over $100 worth of grooming and hygiene products to clients eligible for Basic Food Assistance
- In-person Health Insurance Enrollment Fairs with King County Public Health for laid off airport employees and community members who have lost their health insurance benefits.
- Live, online Airport University classes through Zoom with our college partners
- Alaska Airlines - Airport University Scholarships for current and laid off airport employees
- Training for people who need assistance taking test for security badges and airfield badges required for many airport jobs
- Information on support-net resources such as training opportunities, unemployment, healthcare resources, food and energy assistance, low-cost internet and free COVID testing
